LATONIA RACE TRACK, Ky., June

.- The winners of the races run here

The sensation of the afternoon at nd was the winning of Bardolph, at odds of 50 to 1, in the open ing handleap. He defeated a hot favorite in Ascension. On nothing that Bardolph has shown could he be considered to have a chance to beat Ascension. He won a race at a mile and a sixteenth, but it was a poor per-

The running of Bardolph netted the bookmakers thousands, for there was no play on him and a prohibitive price gainst Ascension for the place. The Clover Stakes was the fixture of the afternoon, and it not only furnished an exciting finish, but it was one of the best betting events of the day. Czaraprine, Incantation, Simplicity and Chrysitis were heavily backed, Incantation being a slight favorite. Czaraphine looked like the winner at the head of the stretch, but Chrysitis closed on he and there was a rattling drive all through the last furlong.

Joe Yeager was much in evidence during the afternoon. He plunged heavy on Orthdox and on his own horse Stuvye. What he lost on Orthdox he won back on Stuyye.

Outside the track to-day the police raided the men and boys who were selling tips. They gathered in about forty of the nuisances. The track was very that nuisances. The track was very that a sternoon. A heavy sea fog set in just before the last two faces were run.

Here's Where Joe Yeager Lost. Audience opened up a favorite in the third race, but her price went up, as there was an astonlehing plunge on Orthodox by Joe Yeager and the smart people. There was nothing in the recent performance of this horse to indicate a plunge, and the race proved it. Orthodox led to the backstretch, where Himself took command and, made the running, followed by Orthodox and Audience. They held this order to the far turn, where Audience and Andy iwilliams closed on the leaders. In the stretch Audience went to the front and won easily by two lengths from Andy Williams, who beat Himself a length and a half for the place.

Chrysttis in a Drive. THIRD RACE—Petite Stakes; four and a half furlongs.—Won by Broadway Girl, 6 to 1 and 5 to 2. Belle of Ashland, 20 to 1 and 8 to 1, was second and Seasick, 10 to 1 and 5 to 1, third. Time—0.55 2-5.

Chrysitis in a Drive.

Incantation. Csaraphine, Chrysitis and Simplicity were well backed in the fourth, the Clover Stakes, but it was unly a two-house affair so far as racing was concerned. Simplicity ran below from and Incantation was not vigorously ridden. Csaraphine went to the thront early and made pace, followed by Chrysitis, Simplicity and Nowena. They held this order to the stretch, where Chrysitis closed on Csaraphine and in a drive all the way home won by a helf length. Czaraphine was four lengths in front of incantation.

'Iron Man" McGinnity, the Giants' record so far this season. To-day he won his twelfth victory. He has pitched thirteen games up to date. for the Giants. The one exception is a tie game he pitched last week against Cincinnati. Following is a story of McGinnity's marvellous box work, and what is responsible for it as told by the pitcher to an Evening World reporter to-day: "How did I do it? Well, I'm a pitco-

That's my business. I've made a study of it a good many years and now I whink I nkow somethin gaobut it -although I am learning more every That was the answer "Iron Man

Joe McGinnity gave to an Evening World man's question of how it is that can win so many games for the analysis of his work it might be well to mention that he secured his sou briquet through his stamina. For three successive days last season he pitched two games each day for the Giants, and won each game. That was something to other pitcher had ever done. Ther have been pachers who have pitched two games in a day, but they were no good the next day. McGinnity was just as fresh and swift the second day as "I believe McGinnity could pitch thirty straight innings without rest or relief," said Manager John McGraw aking of his star twirler.

McGlunity's Rules for Pitching.
Here are the rules had down by Joe Accounty for picking ball:
"Don't drink! Put that in Italies and "Don't defink! Put that in Italics and think of it every minute. When you want to drink—it it's only beer—eat an appie. Don't go with men who are likely to ask you to drink. An ordinary pitcher can last several seasons if he leaves drink aidne. That is the most important rule in pitching baseball. You can't make that too strong. Tell a young pitcher to do anything but drink. It's a good idea for a baseball aspirant to form a strong antipathy to a saloon. If a friend asks him to have a cigar or a soda-water, don't let him go to a saloon for it. Get out of the habit of going to saloons.

"The second lesson consists of work. A man must work or he will not amount to anything. I get out here on the field every morning we are in town. I am nere at 9 o clock, and I work steady until the game is called at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. I pitch to Warner and Bowermay. We study

Teams Must Work Together,

The whole team must work together as one complex but perfectly organized and easy running machine. Every man must know his play at every minute of the game. As an incident I might mention the drop-catch Hans Wagner made vesterday and put two men out at first base. That's good ball playing, Jack Warner's tag on two men at third in the same game was good ball. Those men know their business. They take advantage of every possibility. That is not individual playing. It is team work. That's what counts.

"After those three rules the work is entirely up to my ability to pitch a bail. It might take a page to tell how to pitch ball. Warner says I throw a deeded up curve when I throw underhand. I don't know about that. It may be, but it is the best ball I throw, I tany time. If my arm is once wrenched it may be a week or all seeds on hefore I can throw another ball. I keep in form all the time by keeping my arm right.

In the pitching of a ball much depend on the man who is at the bat. A successful pitcher must know the batter. He must know what kind of a ball he is likely to hit and what kind he is likely to miss. He must familiarize films, and he must depend on his catcher. That is where the study comes in.

Mrs. Hannah Elias made the following statement to an Evening World reporter this afternoon:

"I wish the public to know that I haven't anything to fear of the outcome of this case.

"I haven't the slightest fear. My name will be vindicated when my side is heard. I will talk more fully when the time comes, and the public will then be able to judge of my conduct, and whether I am an innocent or a guilty

"I HAVE NEVER BLACKMAILED ANY ONE IN MY LIFE. Mr. Platt, who, by his accusations, is evidently trying to make it as hard for me as possible, I will not answer at this time, but will abide my own time.

"Much has been said of my mentioning names of other men. All that is false. I am not going to bring in the names of others. I will confine my attention to Mr. Platt. It was not due to me that Mr. Platt's name was brought into this. It was his own doing, and the consequences will be upon his own shoulders."

After an 'entful day, at one time it, which she was the centre of a remarkably hostile demonstration, Hannah Elias, the alleged blackmailer of aged John R. Platt, is a prisoner in the Tombs, held hard and fast there by the almost prohibitive bail of $50,000.

Events crowded one another fast between midnight and noon for the notorious negress. It began with the forcible entry into her house of detectives with the warrant for her arrest, was followed by her removal to the Mercei street police station, then by the execrations of a disorderly mob which thronged the street in front of the station house and cursed
